How can a man be both judge and plaintiff at the same time?

The executive committee of the Red Cross voted Tuesday to appeal to the city council the planning commission's decision against permitting them to build a workroom in the residence zone. Two of the Red Cross executive committee members voting to appeal the decision were Geraldine Smith and Carl Patnude, who are members of the council. As council members they will review the planning commission's decision at the hearing next Tuesday evening.

As Red Cross executive board members they are petitioners before the city council to ask for a reversal of the planning commission's decision against them. As members of the city council they are impartial judges weighing the merits of the case. Plaintiffs and judges at the same time.

To make it more interesting, Mayor Horace Lyon and Councilman John Chitwood are members of the board of directors of the Red Cross. As such they have given their tacit if not actual approval of the Red Cross executive committee's purchase of property in the residence district and of their request to the planning commission to give them a use permit to build on it. Four members of a five man council, who in their executive and advisory capacity to the Red Cross initiated and approved action which the planning commission has disapproved, will now review the merits of the planning commission's refusal.

It's legal, our city attorney says, because the Red Cross is a nonprofit organization.

It may be legal but it's not just.

When the city council sits in judgment on an appeal, the planning commission and the citizens of this town should have the right to an impartial hearing.

Before the Red Cross went to the planning commission for the use permit, they wrote to the National Red Cross for permission to buy and build, and they said in their letter, "We have been assured that the planning commission will grant us a use permit."

Who had the authority to give them that assurance?

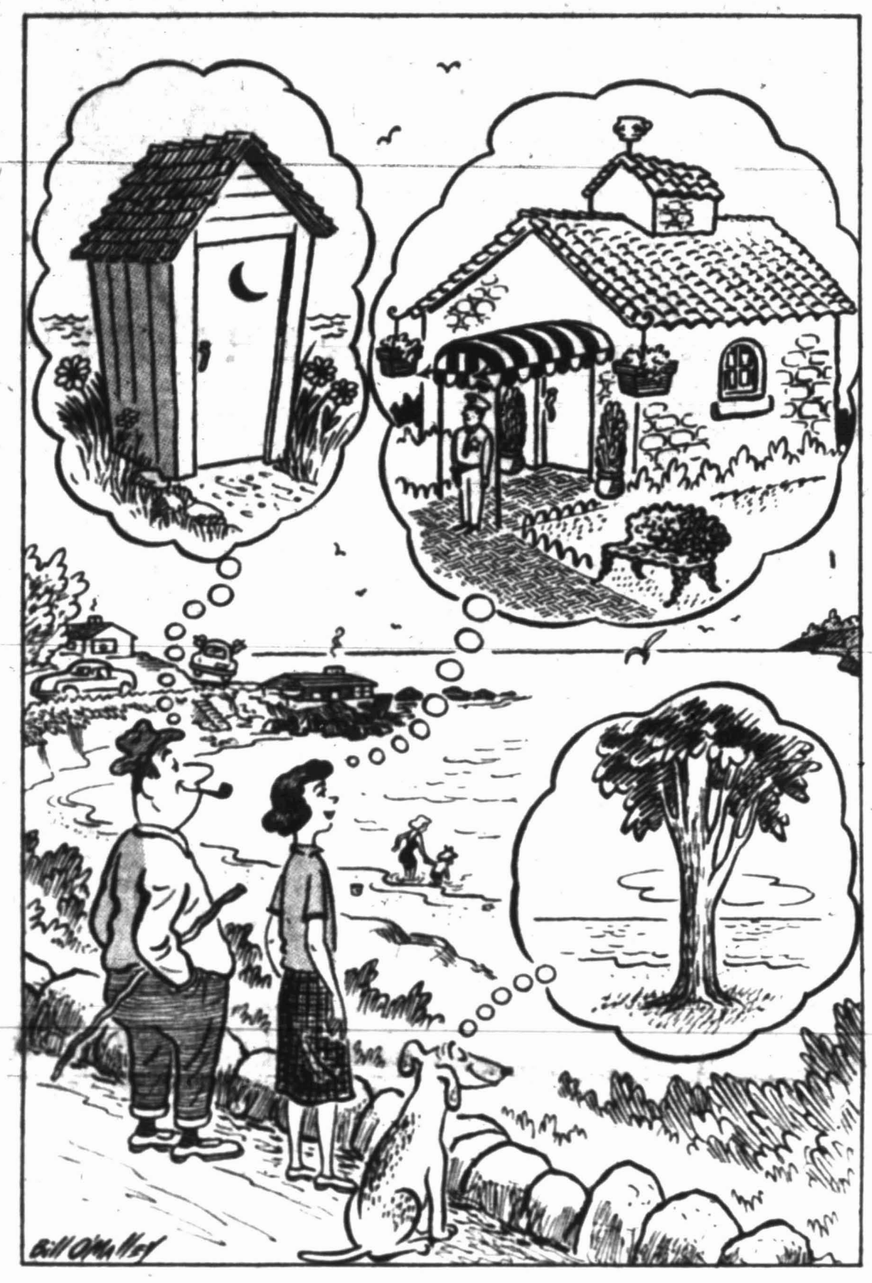

In the same letter to the National Red Cross the local chapter uses the same phase again, "We are assured" that the city will buy one of the lots for $10,000 for a parking lot.

Who could have given them such assurance?

That lot was on the parking district petition, but the parking distrist was not yet in existence. It doesn't exist now.

As a "card carrying member" of the Red Cross, I do not like the officers spending $19,000 of the organization's funds for a piece of property, the value of which is dependent on a use permit, before that use permit has been granted; nor do I like the balancing of the building budget to depend on unloading one of the Above, the dream. Below, what Carl Patnude hopes will be a reality, when he presents Tom Elston's plans of the little restroom for the south end of the Carmel Beach to the city council at its adjourned meeting Tuesday night. Bill O'Malley drew the cartoon above for the Pine Cone over a year ago when the little restroom was being tossed back and forth between the planning commission, which didn't want it, and the city council which thought perhaps it did. From this local run-around it progressed to the county supervisors, when the council thought the city might work up a share the cost arrangement. The supervisors passed it on to the county planning commission who sent it to the county recreation commissioner, where it got lost, months ago.

Now it bobs up again. Welcome back, Carmel's dream house!

Two Hearings Tuesday Nuisance Case And Red Cross Protest

Tuesday night at 8:00 o'clock the city council will hold a hearing on the Red Cross' appeal over the Planning Commission's denial of a use permit for them to locate their work room in the residence district.

At 8:30, it will hold a hearing on a petition to abate the nuisance from the operation of the Foreign Car Center.

The petition was signed by nine property owners in the immediate neighborhood, several of them apartment house and motel owners. Attorney Gordon Campbell, representing one of the petitioners, Sidney A. Dibble, said that the property occupied by the Foreign Car Center had been specially zoned for C-1 use in a C-2 zone in 1938, but the use allowed had been minor automobile repairs. Later it became a body repair plant, a use not intended in the original permit, and now the excessive noise of tuning up and testing sport cars, which sometimes goes on from noon until midnight, and the hammering in repairing fenders, is a nuisance to the neighbors and the motel owners' guests have complained and left.

City Attorney Tom Perry, asked how the matter could best be handled if the council found at the hearing that the business constituted a nuisance, said that since the special use had been created by ordinance, it could be withdrawn by revoking the ordinance, by vote of the council. The property would then automatically fall into the C-2 classification of the

Council Frowns On Individualists Who Put In Hitching Posts, Flag Poles, Driveways Without Permit

Francis Whitaker, at Wednesday night's meeting, invited the council to "throw the book at the Peninsula Paving Company", which had installed a curb on the west side of Lincoln between Seventh and Eighth without obtaining a permit, and had done an unsatisfactory job, from the point of view of the city.

The council agreed that too many people were putting in driveways, sidewalks and curbs first and asking for a permit afterward. They told the city attorney to notify Peninsula Paving to put the curb in proper condition. Two property owners on Casanova Street between Eighth and Ninth had put in driveways wider than the 14-foot legal limit, and had not got a permit. The street superintendent was told to deal with one, the council would take care of the other. And Lee Hamlin will be instructed to remove an iron hitching post and a flagpole he has put up in front of his home on city property on San Antonio between Seventh and Eighth.

Disposing of their tree problems for the month, the council said no to Mrs. Carrol F. Burke who

Community Invited To Sunset School's Xmas Pageant Thurs.

Sunset Elementary School once again invites the community to its annual Christmas pageant at Sunset Auditorium, Thursday evening, December 16 at 8:00 o'clock. There will also be a matinee for the elementary school children on Wednesday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock.

This year the presentation departs from the traditional tableau by being in play form. The 21 actors are students from the fourth through eight grades. The plot of the play follows the traditional Bible story of the birth of Christ with adaptations having been made for a modern theater and a modern idiom — however, the message is the same.

Music for the play will be supplied by an a capella choir of 61 boys and girls under the direction

GILROY TOPS CCAL BASKETBALL JAMBOREE

Before a capacity audience at the Carmel High pavilion, Gilroy High's classy basketball squad established themselves as the team to beat in the B division of the CCAL by romping through all opposition in last Friday's cage Jamboree. Led by a cool poised playmaker, Ron Leonti, the Mustangs were easily the class of the abbreviated tournament. With veterans at all positions, Coach Bob Hagen's crew shows good height, rugged rebounding, and fine shots from up close and on the outside. The Mustangs disposed of Pacific Grove, King City, and Carmel on their way to the Jamboree championship.

Carmel's red and gray colors were carried into the finals of the hoopfest as the Padres edged out Hollister and Gonzales for the right to match baskets with the potent Mustangs. Slow to settle into stride against Hollister, the Padres came strong in the last quarter to finish on top, 11 to 8, with George Wightman, John Zellhoefer, and Paul Fratessa supplying the scoring punch. Fratessa's fine job of rebounding gave Carmel ball control off the defensive boards, while John Farrell and Wightman swept the offensive board. The surprising Spartans, victors over Salinas in their first game of the evening, gave the Padres a sterling tussle before dropping a real close one, 16 to 14. This was touch and go all the way with George Wightman's eight-point effort swinging the tide in favor of the Padres. Gonzales floored a rangy quintet which topped the Padres on rebounds and showed that the Spartans are to be feared in B league competition this year.

In the final game with the Gilroy Mustangs, the Padres matched the Mustangs 6-6 until the final minute when a clean steal and a tip-in gave the Champs a quick 4 points to make the final count, 10 to 6. Superior rebounding was the deciding factor in the championship game as the Mustangs controlled both boards and established ball control. Carmel's squad of Wightman, John Farrell, John Zellhoefer, Paul Fratessa, Charley Dawson, Clyde Klaumann, Dick Ogden, Bob Wise, and Gary Nielsen played solid basketball in the tournament and should be a definite threat in B league play.

Marty Baskin's Pacific Grove squad packed too much power for the hard-trying Salinas Junior-Varsity in the consolation finals and the Breakers won eased up, 17 to 6. The Breakers tasted the Gilroy power early in the evening as the Mustangs topped them, 10 to 6, to send PG into the consolation bracket. Showing more power as tournament play progressed, the Breakers hit their stride as they disposed of Live Oak and Salinas in convincing fashion. With such standout performers as Tom Hoy, Larry Quentel, John Crawford, and Jerry Bailey wearing the red and gold colors, the Breakers will win more than they will lose as the season unfolds.

PADRE BASKETBALL TEAMS AT KING CITY TONIGHT

Buoyed up by a pair of victories over the strong Watsonville Wildcats, the Carmel High basketball squads hit the trail for King City tonight to test the Mustangs in a pair of league jousts. The Carmel lightweights dropped the classy Watsonville Wildkittens, 29 to 22, in their first outing this season, while the Padre varsity hung a 34-30 loss on the rangy Wildcat varsity. At King City tonight, the Carmel varsity will be stacked against an all-veteran aggregation which has played together for two years and were good enough to go to the finals of the Carmel Tournament last season. Sparked by a diminutive guard, Frank Padilla, the Mustangs boast three towering six-footers in Tasos Melitis, Terry Wallace and Frank Cozby. A fine playmaking guard, Jim Albanese, rounds out the starting Mustang quintet.

Carmel's varsity is equipped with ten game-seasoned players who have come up through the lightweight ranks to varsity play. Starting tonight's action will be John Farrell and Mike Mosolf, forwards, George Wightman, center, with Dick Jennings and Paul Fratessa at the guards. Ready for action will be a pair of fine shooting guards Gary Nielsen and John Zellhoefer, forwards Dick Ogden and Bob Wise, and center David Castagna.

Carmel's veteran lightweight starting quintet of Bill McCormack, Ron Huffman, Mervyn Sutton, Jim Konrad, and Mark Hildebrand will have their hands full with the tall King City Ponies who will be make their first outing of the current season. The KC lightweights have good height at all positions and will make McCormack & Company hustle to get their share of the rebounds.

Tonight's action at King City opens B league action for both schools and the play should be plenty spirited as both teams attempt to get off winging toward the championship. Lightweight game starts at 7 o'clock with the varsity tilt slated for 8:15.

CARMEL WINS PAIR FROM PALMA

Making their second clean sweep of the season, the Carmel High lightweight and varsity basketball teams outscored the hustling Palma High squads in a pair of practice tilts at Salinas Tuesday night. Under the clever guidance of playmakers Teddy Childers and Jim Konrad, the Padre lightweights topped the Palma Babes, 36 to 34, in a game that was a thriller right down to the final buzzer. Excellent rebounding by Ron Huffman, Bill McCormack and Dick Albertson was a contributing factor in assuring the Carmel lads of ball control.

Carmel's varsity parlayed George Wightman's 16 point effort with Paul Fratessa's 15 points to outlast a surprisingly good Palma varsity, 49 to 43. Unable to hit from the floor with any consistency, the Padres were nearly scuttled by a rampaging little Palma guard, Runt Garcia, who whipped through 22 points to lead all scorers for the evening. This little fugitive from any lightweight team canned 10 field goals in 15 attempts to befuddle the Carmel defense.

Palma gets a rematch with the Padres at the Carmel gym on January 4.

From Italy A Carmelite Calls For An Accounting Of The Council's Guardianship Of Trees And Streets

City Clerk Peter Mawdsley said he would not read aloud the letter from Livorno, Italy, because he already sent a copy to each council member. Francis Whitaker asked if he could answer for the council in a personal letter. He knows the writer, Ruth Townsend, who used to live across the street from him.

Mrs. Townsend wrote:

"I have just received a letter which distresses me very much, and so will quote from it. 'Carmel is not the village you left, there have been so many changes and almost none of them good. The present city council is too much for commercial interests, and have ruined so many of our winding lovely lanes and put in straight streets, curbs and gutters and pulled down so many of our wonderful trees. Woe is me—too bad that many of old-timers have left us, so that there are not enough left to fight for the beautiful things of Carmel. We had a nice summer—a great number of people were here—but they were not the spending type—too much like the Santa Cruz element.'

"Carmel has been our home for a long time, nearly a quarter of a century, and we could not be more grateful for the privilege of being able to live there. Reports like this which we hear from all sides distress us because they are so unnecessary and disastrous in the end.

"I do not know who is on the City Council now. I only remember wonderful old timers like the Bathens, Miss White and McCreery.

"Isn't there anyone left who will fight to keep alive the thing that is always said to us, when asked where we live. When told that our home is in Carmel, the answer is always the same, 'Oh, you lucky people.'

"This is the first time I ever wrote such a letter, but I feel very deeply about the charm of Carmel and hope you will understand."

S-D Day Wed. But O.K. To Be Courteous From Saturday On

"Give Courtesy" is the slogan for S-D Day on Wednesday, December 15.

This slogan has been adopted by directors from the five Peninsula communities for the Safe Driving Day declared by President Eisenhower. In an effort to decrease traffic deaths in the nation, Wednesday has been set aside as one day in which the public is being asked to observe courtesy and obey traffic rules to the letter and spirit of the law.

Paul McKinstry, Carmel S-D Day chairman, says that he and the other directors feel that if we all observe courtesy to others for a five-day period in advance of S-D Day, the habit of courtesy will be confirmed by the day of the big nationwide test.

Starting tomorrow, a contest will be held to single out the most courteous driver on the Peninsula each day through Wednesday. Anyone witnessing a courteous action on the part of a driver should take down the driver's license number then report the incident in letter form to Courtesy, Monterey. Both the doer and the reporter of the courteous act are eligible for $25 savings bonds being awarded each day. The grand prize for the entire five-day period will be two $50 savings bonds. Judging the contest will be chiefs of police of the Peninsula and a representative of the Highway Patrol office.

Heading the drive on the Peninsula, in addition to McKinstry, are Monterey Police Chief Charles Simpson, in charge of unincorporated areas; Col. H. P. Kayser, Monterey; Clyde Dyke, Pacific Grove; and Dr. John Craige, Seaside.

Full support to the program is being given by all police departments on the Peninsula. "Police drivers and civilian employees of the Police Department are being urged to set a good example on S-D Day," says Carmel Chief Clyde Klaumann. "They are being asked to exercise particular caution in their driving and walking on that day. We want to show the people of Carmel that we also practice what we preach." But, added Klaumann, "It's a program in which we must all participate. I'm asking every man, woman and child who uses the streets to help demonstrate that traffic accidents can be reduced materially if we all pitch in."

Street Dept. Lights City Tree Wed. And Christmas Is On

Christmas season will officially begin in Carmel Wednesday night, with the lighting of the city's two big trees—one at the bottom of the Ocean Avenue hill and the other facing the Pine Inn.

Also starting Wednesday night, several Carmel stores will keep their doors open until 9:00 o'clock for the benefit of shoppers, continuing this policy nightly, except Sundays, through Thursday, December 23.

Over the weekend, merchants will put finishing touches on their store decorations to compete for prizes offered by the business association. Judging the decorations will be Mrs. Robert Aurner, artist member of the Carmel Art Association, City Councilman Carl Patnude, and a member of the planning commission, who'll make their official judging tour on the evening of December 17.

Pen and pencil sets and plaques will be awarded to owners of shops judged to have the three best decorations in both indoor and outdoor display.

A business association Santa Claus will make periodic appearance during shopping hours to distribute candy to children. Another Santa from the Carmel Youth Center will make the rounds December 18, when he will hand out candy for the matinee crowd at the Carmel Theatre.

All Right, Come On, The P. O. Is Ready To Take On All Comers

The post office, all agog, has gone into pre-Christmas production. Tomorrow it will be open all day, 8:00 to 5:00 o'clock instead of indulging in the usual Saturday noon shut-down. Later, another all-day Saturday session will be announced.

Monday, the auxiliary postoffice in the old telephone building at Dolores and Seventh streets will be activated. From then on, it will be open every week day, including Saturdays, from 8:00 to 6:00, and here all the main postoffice box holders and general delivery customers will call for their packages. Packages the R. F. D. carrier is unable to deliver on his route will also be left at the Dolores Street Annex.

Postage due, non-deliverable special delivery and C. O. D. packages will be kept at the main post office. All outgoing mail will be handled there, including packages, which will be processed at the package mailing table in the main lobby. A drop has been provided for bundles of letters next to the regular letter drop, and several other conveniences have been provided by Postmaster Fred Mylar and his crew.

surrounding property.

If the city clerk completes the certification of the parking district petition which was turned over to him this week, at Tuesday's meeting, the council will set a hearing on it for a later date.

Also, it will discuss a resolution to the board of supervisors requesting them to set up air pollution control, and consider a resolution to the state legislators and supervisors regarding uniform sales tax. Either of these matters is important enough and with sufficient ramifications to warrant an evening for it alone. But the council is scheduled to work on both of them and the rest of this week's hung-over agenda, which includes the tasty item: "Question of authorizing the planting and landscaping work in the median island and lower Ocean Avenue." This will be the council's most anguished hour, when it will have to resolve the impasse between the planning commission and the street commissioner over who is to say what is to be planted in the "experimental" island.

In spite of the heavy holdover of business for next week, the council worked industriously from 7:45 to midnight Wednesday and made a dent of sorts in a typical agenda, the kind that runs in length beyond all hope of clearing.

The vote of the employees by departments to be included in the state pension plan, canvassed the day before, was announced: police, 5 votes, all yes; fire, 3 votes, all yes; miscellaneous: street, library, etc., 19 yes, 1 no. The council signed the contract for the city with the state for the retirement plan which will begin for the employees January 1. Information unearthed by the state representative last week on his visit here to set up the election for the employees, led the council to pass a resolution of regret that they had not been accurately informed when they told the voters in their statement before the city election that the finance department employees would not participate in the plan, and that the city clerk, as an election official could not. The state representative informed the council this week that the city hall employees could not remain out if the rest of the miscellaneous group voted to participate, so the two deputy clerks automatically will be included. The city clerk has an option to come in or remain out and the city council have been urging him to participate.

In proposing the resolution, Whitaker said:

"I do not think the inclusion of the city hall employees in the plan would make any difference according to the vote or the cost but I think we should recognize that an error has been made."

Christmas Capers Set For Dec. 21

The annual free holiday show put on by the Carmel Youth Center, the Christmas Capers, will take the Sunset Auditorium stage at 8:00 o'clock on Tuesday evening, December 21.

The show's director, Bonnie Giles, says that the production is being held to about an hour and a quarter for the benefit of restive small fry, but that the time will be packed with songs, dances, chorus routines and novelty acts. Santa Claus will be on hand to distribute candy donated by the business association.

Masters of ceremony for the Christmas Capers this year will be Craven Ross and Pat Grimshaw. Joanne Nix directs the chorus routines, which will include a skaters' dance and the perennial favorite, Frosty the Snowman, while John Farr conducts the 60-voice glee club. Robert Forbes will play organ solos on one of the two organs donated for the occasion.

Adults assisting in various capacities are Chuck Dawson, Jack Belangee and Richard Crouch.

Barbara O'Connor

Mrs. Barbara O'Connor, 80, died Wednesday evening at the home on Junipero near Twelfth Street where she had been living with her granddaughter, Mrs. Irene M. Jones. Death was unexpected, though Mrs. O'Connor had been in failing health for some time.

A native of Nebraska, where she was born January 2, 1874, Mrs. O'Connor had lived in Carmel for the past eight years, and was a member of the Carmel Mission parish and the Altar Guild. She was the widow of Denny O'Connor, who died in Los Angeles in 1937.

In addition to her granddaughter, she leaves a sister, Mrs. Clara Casey of Los Angeles.

Requiem Mass will be said at 8:30 o'clock this morning at Carmel Mission following brief rites at the Mission Mortuary.

Council Frowns On Individualists Who Put In Hitching Posts

wanted permission to remove a city pine to give her easier access to her garage at her home on the west side of San Antonio between Eleventh and Twelfth. They thought that after a month's trial she'd get used to skinning past the pine. Most Carmelites do.

They said no to Mrs. J. A. Elston, west side of Lincoln between Second and Third, who wanted a city acacia removed because its roots were interfering with the sewer system. Council thought the tree too handsome to be sacrificed. Let the sanitary district cope with the sewer stoppage.

Said yes to Mrs. Robert Moffatt, east side of Torres between Mountain View and Eighth, who wanted to remove an acacia to gain access to a garage she proposes to build. "It's an awfully scrubby little acacia," said John Chitwood, "and by removing it, she can save two oaks on her own property."

Decided on their own initiative to remove the pine on the south side of Fifth between Mission and San Carlos. "It's been topped, so it will die pretty soon anyway. Topped pines never do well," said Francis Whitaker. (Editor's note: This is nonsense.)

Said both yes and no to Mrs. Joe Clague's wanting to take out a big pine on Santa Fe, yes if she would pay the cost of removal.

They instructed the city attorney to get damages from Frank Lane who allegedly wrapped his bumper around a city oak while coming up the wrong side of Fifth Street between Mission and San Carlos. They told the street department to remove a limb from the oak on Junipero in front of the Carmel Calor and Glass Shop. "Before it gets torn off, anyway," Whitaker.

Council authorized street department work in the Forest Theater to the extent of grading the driveway, putting a new light fixture over the gate, and providing the workshop doors with crash handles. They gave permission to the Forest Theater Guild to construct a partition in their understage theater and to install two steps, the city furnishing the material for the latter.

Council approved transfer of business license of the Stanley Gida Restaurant at Sixth and Junipero to Conrad E. Satchwell, and location change of Laurence de Adlershelm, real estate, from east side of Dolores Street to the north side of Ocean Avenue between San Carlos and Mission, also David Kupfer, Ph.D., psychologist, from his home to east side of Lincoln between Seventh and Eighth, and Mrs. Clarice M. Slater's Carmel Pet Shop from Junipero beteween Fifth and Sixth to the north side of Seventh between San Carlos and Dolores.

Signs were approved for Mari-Josephs on Sixth Avenue between Dolores and San Carlos, and The Casual Shop, south side of Ocean between San Carlos and Mission.

Council was informed that the State Board of Equalization had received an application for transfer of the On Sale beer and wine license of Gene and Parvin from San Carlos Street to their new restaurant location on east side of Dolores Street near Eighth. John Chitwood said there was no grounds for protest, and no action was taken.

First reading was given three ordinances establishing street grades on Lincoln, west side, between Seventh and Eighth; Lincoln between Fifth and Sixth; Torres between Third and Ocean. Clayton Neill, city engineer was instructed to establish the grade on north San Carlos between Fourth and Third.

It was decided not to ask for bids to supply city equipment with gasoline, when by purchasing through the county contract, the city could save .01138 per gallon.

On the request of the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department the council agreed to consider, when they set up their next budget, paying all the premiums for the firemen's extra compensation insurance instead of half as heretofore. Cost will be about $244 instead of $112.

lots for $10,000 to a parking district that doesn't exist, but may now be forced to come into existence to ransom the Red Cross, for that lot cannot be disposed of for $10,000 for a residence use.

As a Red Cross member I don't like risking chapter funds on future decisions of public bodies. As a Carmel citizen, I do not like to see my city councilmen involved in a situation where they are so deeply committed that they can't function as impartial referees at a public hearing.

Now We'll All Know Who's Chasing Whom At The Post Office

On the recommendation of Police Commissioner John Chitwood, the council decided to brighten up the post office area, approving a street light for the northeast corner of Dolores and Sixth streets, with "as low wattage bulb as is practical."

"I know the policy is to have as few street lights as possible but it must be frightening for lone women to walk there at night. It's awfully dark and it isn't safe," said gallant John.

This is the first street light a council has approved since one was put up at the Youth Center in 1951. About nine years earlier a light was installed on Junipero north of Ocean when the kids were using Walt's shack, since removed, as a Girls and Boys Club. Far back in the past, a light was authorized for the corner near the Boy Scout House.

The post office light will be the first in at least fifteen years to be approved for any purpose other than to provide illumination for youth activities.

Conservation On The March

A Weekly Column by
C. Edward Graves
Western Representative,
National Parks Association

It is undoubtedly true that Secretary of Interior McKay's speeches are usually written for him, but he certainly reads them and approves them before he delivers them. A certain passage in a speech that he made on November 23 before the Manufacturing Chemists' Association in New York is therefore significant, because in the many speeches of his that I have read I have never before heard him express any sentiments of this kind.

Most of the speech was concerned with conservation matters that would be of direct interest to chemists. The first half dealt with the conservation of scarce metals used by the chemical industry. He then turned to water conservation, also of interest to chemists, and after a few preliminary remarks made the following surprising statement: "While the Department of the Interior has the primary responsibility for safeguarding tangible natural resources, we are also responsible for protecting the tangible and equally important scenic and aesthetic values of our Nation. Depletion or destruction of these values, which will deprive future generations of the benefits that we now enjoy, must be avoided".

I question whether the second "tangible" isn't a misprint for "intangible". Certainly "aesthetic values" are intangible, though in some cases scenic values might be called tangible. However, the surprising part of it is that for the first time since taking office, to my knowledge, he has felt this subject of sufficient importance to include it in a speech to a group of business men who are very far removed professionally from any interest in scenery. It has set me to wondering whether the significance of the election in Oregon (Secretary McKay's home state) in which the question of the intangible aesthetic values of scenery was one of the foremost has finally penetrated the higher echelons of the Interior Department.

Another conservation matter mentioned that is currently of primary interest to the Izaak Walton League was that of water pollution. Chemicals dumped into our rivers from manufacturing plants are the cause of much of this pollution. Secretary McKay handled this matter very diplomatically by making an introductory statement that "the day is past when cities and congested areas can dispose of their polluted sewage and industrial waste by pouring it into a nearby river with utter disregard of the water needs of other cities and areas downstream", and then patting his audience on the back by adding that "it is extremely gratifying to know that the chemical industry is constantly studying conditions in the localities of their plants to lessen and eliminate pollution".

There are very few rivers left in this country that are free from pollution and/or dams. I have suggested many times that a "wise use of our natural resources" would be to preserve some of these remaining natural rivers as museum pieces—a souvenir of primitive America, somewhat comparable in the social field to the restoration of Williamsburg, Virginia.

Frank McClain

Frank Pascal McClain, 87, died December 6 in a Salinas hospital following a long illness.

Mr. McClain and his wife, Mrs. Ada B. McClain, moved to Carmel in 1942 from Hanford following his retirement as a certified public accountant, and made their home here at Camino Real and Second Avenue. Mr. McClain was a native of Colusa, where he was born August 27, 1867.

In addition to his wife, he leaves two daughters, Mrs. Darrell Morley of Carmel and Mrs. Walter Jakobsen of San Anselmo; a son, Frank L. McClain, of Redding, formerly of the Carmel High School faculty; and six grandchildren.

Private services were held Tuesday, with the Rev. Angus Dun, Jr., officiating.

The Time Has Come .

By Kippy Stuart

After a trip of over two thousand miles, I am possessed of "scenic indigestion". I've seen so much and studied so many growing things that my mind is a clutter. The odd thing is that after being exposed to so many superior landscaping projects, I should return to Carmel to find the pearl of them all. For many years now I have watched the garden landscaping at the Wayfarer Inn, on the truck route, and I can say truthfully, that the Wayfarer presents one of the neatest, best organized gardens I've seen. At all times that small plot is immaculate and well groomed. Flowers bloom there all the time and the seasonal planting is always excellent.

I am indebted to Mr. Sidney A. Dibble, manager of the Wayfarer Inn, for an important piece of information. I quote Mr. Dibble:

"Carmel has gone through years of grieving over the loss of Christmas berries on our many plants. Recently, a friend imparted to me the idea of stringing green sewing thread over branches of our red berry bushes. We did this, using just a light weight green thread, stringing it back and forth across the shrub four or five inches apart. The birds now leave our berries alone and we will have a good crop for the Christmas season."

What a wonderful bit of information this is for us all! I have always repudiated the idea of sprinkling red pepper or other harmful stuff on our bushes to ward off birds, and while I do think it is our duty to share our berries with the birds, I would like them to have a heart and wait until after the holiday season to strip our shrubs.

That was a million dollar rain we had, even if it did mash all our chrysanthemums down. That is my one grief for chrysanthemums; just as they come into bloom, in this locality, along comes our winter storm to make them eat the dust. Mine are all ruined, and I did have some lovely specimens of spider variety. My stock and snapdragons weathered the storm and are as bright and cheerful as can be. For that I am thankful. I am not one to stake up either of these plants. I do not like to see a constructed flowering bush. So,

New Show at Gallery

By DORA HAGEMEYER

The December show at the Carmel Art Association Gallery is particularly interesting because of the fact that it is unjuried. Many familiar artists have exhibited their work, gaining courage by knowing that it will not have to pass censorship. The result is a most original group of paintings, both in oils and water colors. The whole effect is varied, colorful and full of interest.

To the right of the door in the main gallery is an excellent flower study by Marjorie Pegram. This is called Cup of Gold from the dominant flower in the group, and the rich gold tones contrasting with blues and warming to rose make a very full and satisfying composition, one of the best of this artist's work. In the Alps by Zenas Potter has a feeling of the immensity and remoteness of the mountains, with a little pastoral scene in the foreground. Valley of the Rhone by A. G. Warshawsky is a masterly piece of work, the sunny town grouped around the high plateau, the sky drowned in a violet haze and the foreground remarkable for the fine handling of leaf tones and varying shades of foliage over a wide expanse, a challenge seldom met as successfully. Mending Nets by Harry Yoshizumi is a beautiful, luminous painting with color through color and shifting planes of delicate light, a sensitive visionary work, yet real and truly stated. Reverie by Harvey Williamson uses bold angular lines to achieve its essential strength and directness, the color restrained and almost mute, giving all to the swift strokes of force and fervor. The Lighthouse by Freda Fischer is a sunny treatment of a simple landscape, and Trailing Blossom by Edith Ward Hunt keeps close to nature in its treatment of leaves and bract-like flowers.

Carmel Highlands by Richard Lofton is a remarkable achievement in color. The patches of foliage, with the light sifting through, depend on no studied arrangement of forms for their pronouncement. One does not know where the drama and excitement of such a picture exists and yet it is there, and the eye goes back to it again and again. Mysterious inter-contrasts move and play in every inch of the canvas. Flower Piece by M. J. McMahon is an excellent piece of work, crisp and clear and full of changeful surfaces and varying flower forms. One of The Rough String by Jack Swanson takes the observer into quite another world. Here is a corral full of horses, many of them in violent wild action, roped and protesting. The dusty desert country with the sunny buttes in the background is most convincingly painted by one who knows his subject and has the technique to express what he sees. Porcelain Maid by Mary Miller is delicately painted against a textured background of subtle yellows.

Still Life with Tangerines is one of Patricia Cunningham's finest paintings, vibrant and glowing, each separate object intriguing and interesting in itself, the copper-lighted bowl, the odd-shaped bottle, the long-stemmed wine glass, all brought into singing relationship and united in a theme of flame and ashen gray. This is a splendid work of art, worthy of a place in any gallery. Madonna by Nell Walker Warner is notable for the treatment of the Narcissus in the green glass bowl. The flowers have such a cool ivory texture that they almost seem fragrant. Landscape by Dorothea Roberts is a simple, uncluttered landscape with tree forms against a lighted sea. St. Anne's, Columbia, by Charles Thomas shows an old red church in clustering green shrubbery, the play of russet against the surrounding verdure giving a pleasing and well placed contrast. View from Tall Timbers by Gerald Wasserman is a generous canvas with vivid greens and ample paint, vigorous and full.

Landscape by Mason Wright shows a fine treatment of wild sycamores, the lively, twiggy branches reaching out beyond the leaves, and the irregular mottled trunks swaying carelessly as they do in the river country. The pale lemon-colored fields in the background carry the eye happily into the distance. Unnoted History by Rip Matteson is a piece of old Monterey. The simple bare lines of the old building and the adobe wall denote time past, timbers weathered and worn, and by their very ugliness become beautiful. Virginia Curtis depicts a Bible story in a blaze of flame, and Jane Buffington paints cool reflections in an estuary. Clarence Bates has an excellent marine, with a genuine after-storm feeling expressed in the wild sky and the dripping rocks. Doris Rohr exhibits one of her gem-like flowered studies. She can place a handful of flowers, chosen at random, into a jug and paint them with a clear vividness, precise and close.

Pacific Cliffs by E. M. Heath is an impressive picture, alive with inherent power. A great swinging sea comes pouring into a chasm between the rocks just as it surges in at Lobos with all the ocean behind it. Still Life by Barbara West declares her a sensitive colorist with a firm understanding of form and arrangement. Blue Sea by Frank Myers has crashing breakers rolling in from a landward tide, painted by one who knows how to deal with water. Artist's Shack by Edna V. Richard is a simple and attractive little rural scene, and Pear Tree and Monterey Adobe by Ferdinand Bergdorff catches a high mood of Spring in contrast to the pink facade of the old adobe.

In the alcove, the religious painting, Come Unto Me, by Leslie Emery dominates the room with its imploring gesture, painted as always with intricate care and verity. Lobos Rocks by Sam Harris has a great dramatic wave thrown up by the impact of the ocean against the cliff. The vividness and contrasting colors of the tide rocks make this picture one to study closely. A Quiet Hill by Charlotte Betts is a serene, restrained little picture, not over-stated yet satisfying. Winter Fruits by Charlotte Morton carries out the decorative quality of the hand-carved frame without making the result too over-ornate. The persimmons are especially well painted. Laughing Waters by Frank Moore expresses the glint and ripple of bright sunlight on wide expanses of sea. In November Sun by Harold Landaker a high wave tops the incoming surf. Nyctalopic by Walter Landaker is an abstraction drawn from the concept of night blindness, black against red in an enamelled pattern. Lakeside Sycamore by Thomas McGlynn showers its smouldering autumn leaves across the white, dappled branches, with glimpses of the river beyond.

Cachagua Landscape by Burton Boundey has a purple, hilly haze smudged in, the straying deer in the foreground being the only object defined and precise. Adoring by Jessie MacGregor and the singing group in the picture at the entrance testify to this painter's capabilities in the use of mellow, high color. Ville Franche by John Gratiot is vibrant with sunny, golden tones. The group of balconied buildings shine beside a quiet pier where boats lie in wait, the ascending hill in the background giving a feeling of proximity and shelter. Woman with Red Hair by Joe Ataide is one of his clever dissonant effects, more than a caricature and less than a portrait, brilliant, whimsical and engaging. Mt. Bride by Ferdinand Haasis could only have been painted by one who has watched many waterfalls frothing over the upper cliff and falling with their peculiar swift yet somehow slow motion into the valley below.

Of the portraits in the foyer the Lofton portrait of a child is among the most outstanding. Linford Donovan has a refreshingly lovely study of a little girl, clear in tone and lighted with the innocence of childhood. Leslie Emery has a splendid portrait, remarkable as always for his impeccable technique. A G. Warshawsky's por-

THE SLOW RETURNING

Day by day I saw her turn from life
As petals of her mind recurved with age.
Absently regarding eager youth
She saw it like a stranger on the stage.

Memories were falling leaf by leaf,
The proud but fragile stem was bent and bare.
Hopelessly, I saw the life-tide ebb,
Each hour my heart would falter with despair.

Yesterday I held a fading flower—
And time had left sweet peace upon its leaf.
Suddenly the tension left my heart,
Relinquishing to God my doubt and grief.

Awesomely I saw the slow return
To origin, the stem and petals free.
Patiently, in reverence, I thought
Each life dissolves to meet eternity.

FOG LIFTS

There are no stars tonight. Sky lowers blind
Till dawn shall wake to lift away her fog.
The wood breathes soft, where fern and fallen log
Shelter small denizens that might not find
Safety in open glades. Kind cleaves to kind.
Treetops give sanctuary; yet no bird,
No squirrel-sway of branches can be heard.
Life stills beneath the ponderous dark, resigned.
But when night pales to sunrise, the whole wood
Stirs to glad urgency of livelihood.
So courage, sleeping down the sunless hours,
Wakens to dawn, sips hope dew-cool in flowers;
Then, doubts unclasped, night mists all tossed away,
She steps into the challenge of new day.

—HELEN SEARIGHT FAULKNER

EULOGY FOR WINTER

Cold comes the winter, cold and stark,
A challenge to uncommon strength.

Hard let it rain, wild let it blow!
All growth returns to root at length.

The leaves have fallen—let them go
The tree was never more secure.

It stands against the hollow dark
With adoration in its lines.

Serene, bereft, austere and pure—
How unadorned and firm it shines!

Let there be peace—no joy, no grief,
Seed in the soil—no flower, no leaf.

That impressive armored car which makes the rounds of banks to pick up money bags was parked in front of the Monterey County Trust and Savings on Dolores Street on Tuesday. A young fellow driving south saw it, stopped for a second and yelled to the driver: "Hey, Bud! Do you have change for five?"

King Mederos was in this week to remind us that December 9 was the 11th anniversary of the death of Pal, Carmel's famous dog who was adored by all, fed by many and cared for during his last ailing months by King himself. This latter was not, however, what King came in to talk about. He brought with him a clipping from a recent issue of the Washington Post which pointed out that although Carmel does not have a cemetery, it pays homage to the grave of a dog in the Forest Theater. A plaque at the grave tells all who visit there that the bones of this faithful canine rest in this spot. Also, for those who may not know, there is a portrait of Pal in the children's section of the Carmel Library.

Woman here in town was addressing Christmas cards one evening recently when she became tired and lighted a cigarette with her lighter. Relaxing for a few moments she suddenly realized the room was getting unusually warm and just as she was about to get up and turn off the heater she saw, to her horror, a nice bonfire on the table. The lighter top apparently had not closed when she put it down, and one side of the carefully selected cards are now charred and brown. We commiserate with you, June Simpson!

Gal we know who is of Russian parentage, born and raised in Sitka, Alaska, was concocting something in her kitchen the other day, which consisted of small sections of rolled pie dough filled with some sort of mixture, and which were to be baked and served piping hot. "What are they?" we asked. "Russian hush puppies," she replied. "To throw to the wolves from the sleigh?" we countered. "Oh, no," she said, "these are just for hungry children. The ones we used to throw out in Alaska were filled with red salmon caviar."

We heard this week about a couple in Monterey who have a four-year-old son, who is very fond of a newly-acquired kitten. One evening when a family friend was visiting and the little boy was sent to bed he asked if he could take his kitten with him. Parental permission was granted and later the friend asked if he could go in to see if the lad was asleep. He tiptoed in and bent over the child, who had his eyes tightly closed while the kitten was resting comfortably on his chest. Suspecting the little boy was feigning sleep, he whispered: "The kitten is purring." At that the child's eyes popped wide open and he said: "Oh no. He's not purring. He's praying."

Letter To The Editor

December 6, 1954
Carmel, California

Editor, Pine Cone:

Three members of the Carmel Planning Commission are taking a commendable stand to maintain zoning unimpaired, against the current surge of building pressure; and the Pine Cone is to be commended for so supporting the minority. It has been said cynically that the majority is always wrong. Without unreservedly subscribing to that view, there is need to give heed to minority opinion — particularly when the minority is making no bid for popularity.

In recent years, the planning commission has obviously tried to be accommodating when petitioned by special interests for permission to bypass the aim and purpose of zoning. The result has been repeatedly to demonstrate such concessions undermine the usefulness of a constituted authority.

There have been instances where the result has been beneficial. When the Episcopal Church moved away from a central location on Monte Verde, to build further out on Dolores, it helped to relieve congestion in a traffic bottleneck. Furthermore, the church members respected the town-planning principle by landscaping: the church edifice is architecturally an adornment, with ample space on both sides for trees and shrubbery. God is glorified in the building, without Hollywood vainglory.

The Presbyterian Church is apparently being built similarly with due regard for landscaping, and with provisions to avoid traffic congestion. Unless this aim of the planning commission is maintained, to safeguard the community interest against building pressure, Carmel is on the way to becoming a minor Santa Cruz.

In this age of overturning, with the established order under challenging siege, there has never been greater need for loyalty to constituted authority—whether it be at the Supreme Court level or in a village planning commission. Carmel cannot afford to have the planning commission's purpose repeatedly impaired. Traffic casualties are inevitable when there is impaired driving. It is a form of impaired driving to bypass the community amenities of Carmel.

Sincerely,
Charles A. Bowman

CONTINENTALS CAPITALIZE ON LAST WEEK'S RAINS

A week of rain which muddied up cars nicely, followed by a fair, clear Saturday, provided ready-made work for the one-day car wash concession provided by the Carmel Continentals, a group of local hot-rod enthusiasts, through the courtesy of Carl & Chan Service Station.

The Saturday's work by several members of the club netted them a well-earned $30, which will be applied towards building a drag-racer which the Continentals hope to run at Salinas and possibly even at Bonneville.

Mary Lou Beshore To Wed

Wedding plans were announced this week by Mary Lou Beshore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lee Beshore of Carmel, and First Lieutenant William Frederick Shrum of Greensburg, Pennsylvania, a student at the Army Language School.

The couple will be married at 4:00 o'clock next Saturday afternoon, December 18, in the Church of the Wayfarer, with Dr. K. Fillmore Gray officiating. Following the reception, which will be held at the church, the new Lieutenant and Mrs. Shrum will leave for San Francisco and shortly afterwards will fly east to spend the Christmas holidays with the benedict's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Shrum, in Greensburg.

Mary Lou graduated from high school in Marion, Indiana, and subsequently attended Brown School for Girls in Glendora, California, and the University of Indiana. Since moving with her parents to Carmel, she has been employed here at the Monterey County Bank. She is the sister of Robert Keightley Beshore, who will be best man at the wedding; his wife, Barbara, will be Mary Lou's matron of honor.

Lt. Shrum graduated from high school in Greensburg and entered the University of Pennsylvania, where he affiliated with Phi Delta Theta. His college career was interrupted by two years' Army service, but he later returned to Penn for his A.B. degree. Having decided on the Army as a career, he is now with the department of Mandarin Chinese at the Language School.

Following their return from the holiday visit in the east, Mary Lou and Bill plan to make their home in Carmel.

Club Christmas Party Monday

Carmel Woman's Club will have its annual Christmas party Monday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock.

In keeping with the Christmas spirit, each member will bring two gifts to the party: a small gift to be exchanged during the afternoon, and a food donation or small cash contribution to be forwarded to a needy Peninsula family.

Refreshments will follow the holiday tradition and there'll be carol singing to the accordion accompaniment of Mrs. Kenneth Ray.

Mrs. Lucille Capen is chairman of the party, with Mrs. Barry Jones co-chairman. They are assisted by the following committee: Mesdames Howard H. Bell, Harry L. Beshore, Stuart Blythe, James Dixon, C. W. Fonteneau, Ralph Goudy, Gladys Horn, S. F. Moore, William Hales, Robert Ramsey, Maurice Rattray, B. J. Simmons, H. M. Wight, and Misses Mary M. McIntire and Ethel O'Connor.

Smiths' Future All-American

Santa won't have to bother too much with Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Smith this year. They've already got just what they wanted. To wit, a son.

The Smiths welcomed their baby boy just one week ago today at Peninsula Community Hospital, and promptly named him after his dad: Charles Lynn Smith, Jr. He's their first child, and also the first grandchild for Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Scates of Carmel and Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Smith of Salinas, and collectively, they couldn't be happier with him.

Father Smith already has a career all picked out for his son, as a pro football player. In the 20-inch, seven-pound 10-ounce frame of Charles Jr., he sees the makings of a potential quarterback. In any case, Junior's doing a sterling job of calling the signals in the family right now.

Dozenth Stilwell Grandchild

Mrs. Joseph Stilwell became a grandmother for the twelfth time on Sunday, with the birth of a seven-pound baby boy to her daughter, Alison, and son-in-law Colonel William R. Cameron. The baby, who has been named Bruce Stilwell Cameron, joins two sisters, Cathy and Laurie, aged five and three respectively. Colonel Cameron, who is stationed at the Pentagon, is the son of Mrs. Clio Lee Aydelott of Monterey.

Mrs. Stilwell had the opportunity to visit the Camerons less than a month ago in the course of a five-week tour of the country when she saw all the members of her far-flung family. At Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, she stopped with Colonel and Mrs. Ernest F. Easterbrook (Nancy Stilwell) and their three children; Colonel Easterbrook was formerly stationed at Washington, D.C. Colonel Joseph W. Stilwell, Jr., who recently completed a tour of duty in Korea, is now stationed at Fort Benning, Georgia, where he welcomed his mother for a visit. In Burlington, Vermont, Mrs. Stilwell stayed with Lt. Col. and Mrs. William E. Cox (Winifred Stilwell) and their four children, who formerly lived here in Carmel. And on the homewards trip she stopped off in Westwood to see Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin Watson Stilwell, who expect to be up here for the Christmas holiday. Dr. Stilwell, who completed his interneship at San Joaquin County Hospital in Stockton, is now resident physician in pathology at Sawtelle Veterans' Hospital.

Carmel-Seattle Shuttle

That notable vacation so long planned by the George Willoxes was actually achieved last month, when George and Loli took off for Seattle and a stay with Don and Betty MacDonald, who'd been visiting with them here.

The Willoxes are now back from their three-week idyll in the northwest, and with them again is Don MacDonald. Betty has remained at their home on Vashon Island to complete a new children's book promised her publishers. Don plans to return home for Christmas, then he and Betty will come back to Carmel, possibly for good, depending on the completion of their place in the valley.

A condensation of Betty's newest book, Onions in the Stew, describing life and times on Vashon Island, is featured in the December issue of Ladies' Home Journal.

While the Willoxes spent most of their holiday on Vashon, they also ferried over to the city and rode over to Mercer Island, where they visited former Carmelites Morley and Sheila Horder.

Wayfarer Circles' Tea

A Christmas program and tea was enjoyed Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Walter Schuster by members of the four Circles of the Wayfarer Woman's Auxiliary. A large Christmas tree filled the big south window and holiday greenery scented the room with its fragrance. Presented by the president, Mrs. Philip Livingston, the program included a Christmas meditation read by Miss Annis Quinn, Christmas story read by Mrs. Henry Venn, viola solos by Mrs. Milton Shutes with Mary Whitmer as accompanist, Christmas carols by the Chapel singers, and carols on the musical saw by Dr. K. Fillmore Gray accompanied by Mrs. Gray. This is the one purely social activity of the year which women of the Wayfarer Church hold.

Next Tuesday the high school music classes under direction of John Farr will give their annual recital for the Auxiliary at the church.

Another Smith Bows In

The male plurality in the family of Cmdr. and Mrs. Millard J. Smith of Carmel Valley was increased by one last Thursday, with the birth of eight pound, eight ounce Douglas Hans Smith.

He's the third boy for the Smiths, whose two other sons are Wayne and Harlan. Outnumbered but still holding her own is a daughter, Barbara.

Cmdr. Smith was recently assigned to the Navy Line School after a tour of sea duty skippering a ship in the Pacific. Joining the family for the time being is Mrs. Smith's mother, Mrs. H. J. Olson, who came up from Southern California to see her grandson.

Pine Needles

Enter Tina Tomlinson

Cause of much pre-holiday cheer around the George L. Tomlinson home in Pebble Beach is a lovely little package in three-cornered gift wrapping by the name of Tina Adele, who arrived at Peninsula Hospital last Tuesday, November 30, at exactly 8:29 o'clock a.m.

Doting father Tomlinson, who plies his trade as an insurance broker here in Carmel, describes Tina as a "champagne blonde", which sounds pretty snaky for a lady just 11 days old. On the statistical side, she weighed six pounds, seven ounces, which is bigger than any doll her eight-year-old sister, Helen Lynn, has ever had to play with.

Family-wise, small Tina is a fourth-generation Carmelite and a descendent of pioneers in the Carmel area. Her maternal grandparents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Escolle, and her great-grandfather, the late Honore Escolle, once owned a large ranch holding on the Peninsula which included what is now Carmel proper. She's also the grandchild of Mrs. George L. Tomlinson, Sr., of Memphis, Tennessee, and niece of Mr. and Mrs. Kip Silvey of Carmel.

Musical Art Club Party

At Student Union Hall, Monterey Peninsula College, the Musical Art Club will present its Christmas party and program, Sunday evening. The hour is set at 8:30 o'clock to accommodate those who have earlier engagements on the same evening. John Farr, music director of the Carmel High School, will provide a program with his two choruses from the Adult Evening Classes. These fifty men and women have attained a proficiency under Mr. Farr that is well above the average in a repertoire of charming numbers. At 9:30 o'clock the social hour with refreshments will celebrate in true Christmas spirit the twenty-first year of the club's organization. All members and their guests, as well as the members of the choruses, are invited to be present and join in caroling in the tradition of the season.

Trowbridges' First

Lt. and Mrs. Frederick M. Trowbridge welcomed their first child November 27 in the person of a six pound, 15 ounce daughter, whom they've named Terry Lee.

The young lady, a blue-eyed brunette, is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Kress and Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Trowbridge, all of Green Bay, Wisconsin, where Lt. and Mrs. Trowbridge also lived before the Lieutenant's assignment to Fort Ord. Mr. and Mrs. Kress were here for the baby's arrival, and plan to remain with their daughter and son-in-law through the Christmas holidays. The paternal grandparents hope to be able to fly out from Wisconsin soon.

Adamson Heads GOP Assembly

In his first official act as new president of the Monterey County Republican Assembly, Jason Adamson is in Stockton today representing the local group at the state convention of the California Republican Assembly.

Adamson was elected president of the Monterey County assembly at a meeting December 3 at Carmel High School. Other officers elected were Fred Mitchell, vice-president; Ed Ewig, treasurer; and Mrs. John Patullo, secretary.

Re-elected to the board of directors were Frank Adams, Mrs. Peggy Marquard, Louis Moore, William Ashley and outgoing president Kenneth Ray.

Payne-Kendall Wedding Tonight

Wedding vows will be recited this evening at 7:00 o'clock by Jannine Martha Payne and James R. Kendall, both of Carmel Valley. The ceremony will take place at the Southern Baptist Church in Salinas, with the Rev. W. I. McClung officiating.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mrs. Frances Payne of Robles del Rio and Elmer Payne of Avenal, while the future benedict is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Kendall of the Valley. Wedding attendants tonight will be Don and Barbara Payne, Jannine's brother and sister-in-law.

The Kendalls plan to honeymoon in Sequoia, and will make their home in Salinas where Jim is employed.

Wettengels Announce a Son

P. A. McCreery has received an announcement from former Carmelite Phil Wettengel heralding the birth of the Wettengels' first child, a five pound, 11 ounce boy. His name is Philip Foster Wettengel.

Phil and his wife are now living in Oklahoma City, where he is in public relations work. He graduater from Carmel High in 1948, later spent four years at the University of Oklahoma and, following his graduation there, two years with the Army, finally getting his discharge this summer.

Phil's father, the late "Curley" Wettengel, formely worked as a printer for the Pine Cone. Following his father's death, Phil lived for a time with the McCreerys. His mother, Mrs. Mattie Wettengel, lives in Houston, Texas.

Donnellys' Daughter Christened

Wearing her mother's baptismal gown, small Laura Sara Minton Donnelly was christened last Friday at Carmel Mission by Msgr. Michael O'Connell.

Laura is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Donnelly of Carmel, and sister of John Charles Donnelly and William Sherman Donnelly, aged three years and 18 months, respectively.

Members of the christening party included Mrs. Richard Osborne, proxy for the baby's godmother and paternal aunt, Miss Mary Grace Donnelly of Detroit, and Charles Scoville, Jr., proxy for the godfather, Ward Kemp of Sausalito. Following the church ceremony, the Donnellys entertained with cocktails at their home.

Mrs. Donnelly's parents, the Gerald Murphys of Sneedon's Landing, New York, were unable to be present for the christening, but arrived here Wednesday for a holiday visit with their family.

Weigolds Have a Daughter

Cheryl Lynn is the name of the bonny new daughter welcomed recently by the John Weigolds. The baby was born November 28 at Peninsula Hospital, where she weighed in at a featherweight five pounds, one ounce.

Also in the Weigold family is another little girl, Linda, who was on hand to welcome her new baby sister home last week. Grandparents of Cheryl Lynn are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hanley of Monterey and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ornelas of Tulare, who left here Monday after a visit with the Weigolds.

The baby's father, who graduated from Carmel High and served with the Navy in the Far East during the Korean War, is a member of the Carmel Police Department.

Now We Are Six

Peter Ruster rounded up seven of his young friends for fun and games last Thursday celebrating his sixth birthday, honoring which his mother, Mrs. John Ruster, had designed a party on the theme of "good old autumn".

Orange, yellow and brown were used in all the party decorations, from napkins to balloons, and even the chocolate cake, served with orange sherbet, was trimmed with yellow cowboys. The big treat of the party, a yellow crepe-paper pinata, showered the guests with toys and sweets when felled by a roundhouse blow from the birthday boy.

Peter is now manfully struggling to master the two-wheeled bike which he received for his "big gift", and which he will soon grow up to, or on to.

Guests at Peter's party were Roger Knoop, Hazel Jacoby, Debbie Whittlesey, Jonathan McCaman, Gerald Pullen, Jackie Leddick and Mark Miller.

Note From Mrs. Matthews

A former Carmelite now settled in New York has written to say hello to her friends on the Peninsula. She's Mrs. Alfred Matthews, who now makes her home in the east with her daughter, Mrs. J. P. Champlain.

Mrs. Matthews and her husband lived here for a number of years following his retirement from business in San Francisco; among other things, he was active in work for the Wayfarer Church and a member of the Library Board. Following his death, Mrs. Matthews lived for a time with a daughter in San Rafael, later with another daughter in Santa Maria.

Her present address is 390 First Street, Apt. 13F, New York 10.

Holiday Gift Of Two Puppet Shows Offered By Cherry Foundation

Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock, the Carl Cherry Foundation will offer the first of two free Christmas programs at the Golden Bough Playhouse featuring "actors with puppets" John Ralph Geddis and Francois Martin.

Wednesday's program is especially designed for the adult theatre-goer, and will consist of The Little Flowers of St. Francis in a repeat performance requested by many who saw this rare work last year. Little Flowers is a group of legends concerning the life of the beloved St. Francis of Assisi, the dialogue taken from actual writings of St. Francis and his Minstrels of God. Settings are drawn from the Giotto frescoes. Episodes include Wolf of Gubbio, Preaching to the Birds, Hymn to the Sun, Temptation of Brother Rufino and The First Creche.

A special post-Christmas program is planned for children on Tuesday afternoon, December 28, at 2:30 o'clock. Feature work will be The Tragical Comedy of Mr. Punch, which will be performed in the centuries-old English holiday tradition. Also on the program will be A Ballet for Rabbits, The Trained Seal and The Juggler.

The two free puppet shows offered this year continue the tradition of an annual Christmas gift to the community of a theatre or music presentation from the Cherry Foundation. Mr. Geddis and Mr. Martin, now in residence at the Cherry Foundation, have been among the foremost practitioners of puppet theatre in its mature and authentic form for over 25 years, and achieved world-wide note for their puppet theatres in Boston and Santa Barbara.

Sanitary Employees Still Prefer The Social Security

Informed that a majority of the employees had voted for social security rather than state retirement plan, the Carmel Sanitary District Board, at its meeeting Monday night, instructed Secretary William Satchell to make application for the federal insurance.

At the last meeting of the board, when a letter was read from the employees, requesting that they be put under social security, Floyd Adams, sanitary board inspector, suggested that the action be delayed until the men and the board members could talk with a representative of the California State retirement insurance, who would be here to assist the city employees hold their elections for the state plan. After hearing the state representative last week, the sanitary employees held an informal election. Five voted for social security and two didn't vote.

Old Favorite At Wharf Saturday

The Wharf Players will open a new production of a time-honored comedy this weekend, Saturday night, as the curtain goes up on a musical version of Charley's Aunt, by Brandon Thomas. Ben Small heads the cast, playing the famous role of "Charley's aunt from Brazil, where the nuts come from." The musical farce is especially designed for holiday theatre-going. It will feature a dozen songs and dances staged by Dale Lefler, recent star and choreographer for the Wharf's Pal Joey.

There will be performances at 8:30 o'clock every Friday, Saturday, and Sunday night for an indefinite run. Carmel acts included in the cast are Alec Merivale, Carmalita Benson, Bill Kaye and John Forbes.

What every draftee knows was successfully proved recently by Army Corporal Thomas W. Hurff of Pebble Beach, who temporarily commanded a full company to make a point in the good-natured traditional rivalry between Regular Army and drafted soldiers.

Cpl. Hurff, regularly a mortar squad leader, took over command of his Company A during a 33rd Regimental Combat Team all-draftee parade at Fort Kobbe in the Canal Zone. The review was staged by the team's draftees to show Regular Army men just how sharp the drafted soldier could be.

Cpl. Hurff, who attended Monterey Peninsula College before entering the Army just a year ago, was named to his temporary command for his leadership, appearance and ability to give commands.

These qualities, however, seem to run in the family: Cpl. Hurff's father is Rear Admiral Jack E. Hurff. He and Mrs. Hurff make their home near Monterey Peninsula Country Club.

City Will Sell Two Absolutely Genuine Native Dwellings

Want to buy an authentic Carmel cottage and guest house, and haul them away? The city council authorized advertising for bids in the December 17 and 24 issues of the Pine Cone for the "rectory", the cottage next door to city hall, which was city hall until the Episcopalians moved out and the council and finance department moved in. Also for sale will be the little guest house behind the rectory where the late Tom Hefling, Carmel's gentle, much loved tax collector, spent his placid days among his big tax lists and calendar lithograph landscapes.

The buyer will have to remove the buildings by February 1 so access across the city property can be given the Church of the Wayfarer during its building period. In return, the Wayfarer is to do something about helping surface the lot the old buildings now occupy, which is destined for official parking.

Chorus Serenades Wayfarer Aux.

Carmel High School A Cappella Choir will provide the music for the Christmas meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Church of the Wayfarer for the tenth successive year. This group under the direction of John W. Farr will present a program on Tuesday at 2:00 o'clock in the chapel. The devotions will be given by Mrs. E. Leigh Mudge. Tea will be served in the Fellowship Room at the conclusion of the concert, prepared by a committee including Mrs. John R. Christie, Mrs. C. C. Torrance, and Mrs. Percy Tyerman. Mrs. John W. Farr, Mrs. Kenneth Gray and Mrs. John Mason will pour.

Preceding the program at 12:00 o'clock there will be a sale of Christmas foods and handmade gifts, the work of a number of members of the group, and these tables will be arranged by Mrs. Henry R. Bell, Mrs. C. A. Neddersen, Mrs. Orley Holm and Mrs. R. C. Cairns.

Kellogg Resigns, Pruitt New Member Of Sanitary Board

James B. Pruitt, chief architectural designer for Comstock Associates, was appointed by the Carmel Sanitary District Board to fill the unexpired term of L. O. Kellogg at the regular meeting of the board Monday.

Kellogg, who resigned for reasons of health, has served the sanitary district since September of 1942, when he was first elected to the board. This September he was reappointed to the board for a four-year term, which will be taken over by Pruitt until September of 1958.

This will be the first civic office for Jim Pruitt, who has lived in Carmel since 1945. A graduate in architecture from Pennsylvania State College, he has worked with architects, designers and civil engineers. He moved to the Peninsula with his family following three years' duty with the Navy, working firist with the late Hugh Comstock and then, following Mr. Comstock's death, helping to set up Comstock Associates. He makes his home at Guadalupe and Camino Del Monte with his wife, "Mike", and son Jimmy, a sixth grader at Sunset School.

Home Looks Green to Browns

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Brown returned home this week from a six-weeks' holiday in the middle west and eastern states. Center for their visiting was their home town of Des Moines, Iowa, where Mrs. Brown's parents live. Cedar Rapids, and Washington, D.C., where Ken's mother and sister make their home. With the exception of Maryland, the Browns found the landscape pretty bleak and destitute of color, also pretty cold. They hit California on their return trip just in time for a minor blizzard at Donner Summit, which involved using chains. During their absence, the Village Inn was managed by their son-in-law, Vance Fishel.

Grade School Notes

Mrs. Whyte's Fifth Grade

I want to tell you about a couple of friends of mine called Flip and Flop. One day Flip told Flop how he broke his bike speedometer. He was riding one of the steep hills in Carmel, and, snap, it busted because he was going faster than forty miles an hour.
—Harold Faulkner

There was an old lady that swallowed a pill,
She got so excited she fell in a rill,
She got so wet,
She made a bet,
That her lung must have turned to a gill. —Judy Hensel

Once upon a time there was an old man. His name was Anyface. People called him Anyface because he could change his face to look like any one. One day he made his face look like a little boy named John. After he made his face look like John he couldn't get it back to normal, so he went to a doctor. The doctor took a pair of pliers and shaped it back to normal. After that Anyface never made faces any more. —Peter Foster

In the little town of Carmel there are beaches for people to have fun. The story starts when a boy was on his first trip to the beach. John wanted to go in wading, but his mother said no because of the undertow. John did not believe her. When his mother was not looking, John went into the water, and he almost drowned. His mother got to him just in time. That's why we should all obey our mothers and fathers. They may save our lives sometime.
—Kathleen Wyatt

Mary Ralston

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 2:00 o'clock for Mrs. Mary Truxton Craven Ralston, who died Wednesday morning at a Santa Cruz rest home where she had been under care for some time.

The services will be held at St. John's Chapel, Del Monte, of which Mrs. Ralston was a parishioner. The Rev. Bernard Lovgren will officiate.

A Carmel resident for nearly 25 years, Mrs. Ralston was a native of Vallejo, where she was born January 31, 1877. She came to Carmel in 1930 with her husband, Louis Chapman Ralston, who died in 1939, and made her home here at Valley View and Sixteenth streets.

She leaves a daughter, Beatrice Ralston of Carmel, and a sister, Katherine Craven of Roxbury, Connecticut.

DOUBLE BIRTHDAY

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

The effectiveness of scientific prayer in meeting human problems of every kind will be set forth at Christian Science services this Sunday.

Keynoting the Lesson-Sermon entitled "God the Preserver of Man" is the Golden Text from II Timothy (4:18): "The Lord shall deliver me from every evil work, and will preserve me unto his heavenly kingdom: to whom be glory for ever and ever."

Among the passages to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will be the following (16:7-11): "Our Master taught his disciples one brief prayer, which we name after him the Lord's prayer. Our Master said, 'After this manner therefore pray ye,' and then he gave that prayer which covers all human needs."

From the Bible will be read the account as given in Matthew of Christ Jesus' instructions on how to pray which includes the following (6:7, 8): "But when ye pray, use not vain repetitions, as the heathen do: for they think that they shall be heard for their much speaking. Be not yet therefore like unto them: for your Father knoweth what things ye have need of, before ye ask him."

I leave both stock and snapdragons to go their own way, which is to elbow themselves to the ground, then start blooming straight up. This still leaves ample stem for cutting and you are not forever trying to harness them to a stiff stake.

Nemesia is still bright, that is the young plants, but the nemesia that had matured before my departure, has been crumpled to the ground, along with the chrysanthemums. I am frantically trying to get my Spring bulb planting completed. My tulips have been in the refrigerator now for several weeks, and a friend called me to suggest that these tulips might become an Eskimo Pie if I didn't get busy, which I am.

O'Malleys Plan Grand Tour

The Bill O'Malleys are all aglow over their big Christmas present to-themselves-from-themselves —a grand tour of Europe.

The glow is anticipatory, however, since the O'Malleys won't be leaving until February. They'll be among the 12 passengers to board a Norwegian ship in San Francisco, then enjoy a 30 to 35 day cruise which will take them through the Canal and across the Atlantic to Antwerp.

After disembarking and regaining their shore legs, the O'Malleys intent to strike out through Belgium, France, Spain, Switzerland, Austria, Italy and Portugal, spinning the tour out to six months or so. Their itinerary will be flexible enough to permit just loafing for a while any place that particularly appeals to them.

Bill plans to make use of the long sea journey to work on a new cartoon opus. Previously published O'Malley works are Two Little Nuns, Golf Fore Fun, and Blessed Event, the latter of which was released this fall.

Miss Garson Nods In, With Friend

The Pine Cone office was brightened Wednesday evening by a visit from Greer Garson, colorful as a Lautrec poster in a red, blue and gold costume, and escorted by a fluffy white mite of poodle called Pasco.

In a brief, vivacious summary of her activities since her last visit to the Peninsula, Miss Garson related that she and her husband had spent the summer in Europe, that Pasco attracted much more attention than she did, that a poodle is more difficult to travel with than a person, and that they had just completed shooting her new picture in Arizona, Strange Lady in Town. Also that she hadn't been receiving her copy of the Pine Cone, and that Pasco's name stands for the initials of a chemical company.

Pasco and Miss Garson are here for a brief visit with her mother, Mrs. Nina Garson, but will be off again shortly to join Miss Garson's husband in Texas.

Nancie Stars in College Play

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brown drove down to Santa Barbara last weekend to see their daughter, Nancie, as the feminine lead in a first-night performance of The Crucible, presented at the Lobrero Theatre by the University of California at Santa Barbara.

Nancie's playing in the role of Abigail Williams earned her an "excellent" review from Ronald B. Schofield, critic for the Santa Barbara News-Press. Nancie also had one of the leads in a recent campus production of Riders To The Sea.

A graduate of Carmel High, Nancie previously studied drama at Pasadena Playhouse, and has appeared in several productions here at the Forest Theatre and elsewhere.

Rene McDonald Is Mrs. Dial

Rene B. McDonald and Jack E. Dial were married November 28 at the home of the bride's son, Robert H. McDonald, on Viscaino Street.

The simple candlelight service, which was read by Dr. K. Fillmore Gray, took place at 7:30 o'clock before a flower-banked fireplace in the presence of a few close friends of the bride and groom.

The bride wore a smart grey ensemble with white accessories, and pinned on a corsage of white carnations. Attendants for the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Robert McDonald.

Following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Dial welcomed friends at a reception at Mission Ranch.

The new Mrs. Dial has been a Carmel resident for the past 18 years, and has been associated with several dress shops here. Mr. Dial, who has made his home here for three years, is in the automotive business in Monterey.

The couple are now at home at Palou and North Casanova streets.

School District Finds It Doesn't Own Sunset, Bay

School Board slogged its way through a routine business meeting Wednesday night, somewhat handicapped by the absence of its chairman, J. O. Handley, who's having a holiday in Las Vegas.

The Board found that the district did not have title to Sunset and Bay School properties. The titles have never been transferred from the now-defunct Sunset School District and Bay School District. The matter is being attended to. The problem of Sunset's slate roof also received attention, Superintendent Mitchell advising that the board engage structural engineer Mac Perkins to find out whether or not it would be feasible to replace the roofing on just the west side of the main Sunset building, and what it would cost.

Mitchell reported that a crossing guard had been hired for the high school intersection. The guard, Ben Patterson, has been on duty for the past two weeks, manning the crossing 15 minutes before and 15 minutes after school hours and during lunch hour each day.

Board also reviewed and finally tabled the long-standing hassel over the transformer vault at River School with P.G.&E. representatives Lloyd Weer of Carmel and Grant Cunningham of Monterey; referred the question of having the high school gym open during the holiday to the student council; told the World Affairs Council if it took a silver offering at its meeting at Sunset Auditorium it would have to pay for the use of the Auditorium.

Women's Chorus Has Three Performances Scheduled For Dec.

The Monterey Peninsula Women's Chorus has scheduled a series of three Christmas programs on the Peninsula. The first of these will be in a joint appearance with the Peninsula Male Chorus for the Musical Arts Club Christmas party on Sunday evening at 8:30, in the Student Union of the Monterey Peninsula College. Their second appearance will be for the benefit of the ward patients at the Fort Ord Hospital, on Wednesday evening, December 15, from 6:00 to 8:00 o'clock. Finally, they will appear as guests at the annual Christmas performance of the Peninsula Male Chorus, scheduled for the afternoon of December 19, at the Carmel Woman's Club.

The Women's Chorus is composed of 25 members from all over the Peninsula and meets each week as part of the Adult School program of Carmel, and is directed by John Farr, who also directs the Male Chorus. Peggy Aitkenhead serves as accompanist for the group.

Their Christmas program consists of many of the old familiar carols in new settings and of several unusual medieval carols and folk tunes.

BLOOD BANK THURSDAY

The Mobile Blood Bank will make its next visit to Carmel on Thursday. The unit will be set up at the American Legion Hall on Dolores Street at Eighth, and will operate from 10:00 o'clock in the morning until 1:00 o'clock in the afternoon.

The Red Cross Canteen workers will provide the usual buffet luncheon to all donors.

Prospective donors, who have heretofore been turned down because of a history of jaundice (infectious hepatitis) or malaria, are now able to give their blood for reduction to fractions, provided there has been no attack within the last two years. Among the fractions made of blood are Gamma Globulin, still the only known agent capable of warding off the crippling effects of polio.

Donors are asked to phone Red Cross, 7-6921 and make advance appointments. Carmel Valley donors may make reservations by calling Mrs. Paul Porter, Jr. at Los Laureles 9268.

Don Mann New Owner Of N-B Flower Shop

New proprietor of the N-B Flower Shop on Sixth and Lincoln is Don Mann, who has made flowers his business for over 25 years.

Mr. Mann and his wife, Leah, moved here two months ago, leased a home on Monte Verde Street near Third, and decided to stay permanently. They have a married daughter in San Francisco. They previously lived in the San Joaquin Valley, where Mr. Mann managed a flower shop in Fresno and also, in one of his rare lapses from the floral trade, worked for a contractor.

A native of Denver, Mr. Mann spent a number of years as a floral consultant designer, traveling throughout the country. He taught in two schools of floral design, and at one time worked as floral consultant and decorator for several Hollywood stars.

How Will It Seem Around Red Cross Without Miss Mery?

Miss Anna Mery, a Carmel resident for more years than most people can remember, said goodby to her friends here last Friday, then boarded a plane for the first time in her life to fly back to Ann Arbor, Michigan, where she will make her home from now on.

Every day for 15 years, Miss Mery has worked in the production department of the Carmel Red Cross chapter house, knitting, sewing and crocheting hundreds of items to be sent to soldiers here or needy families abroad. She was absent for a short time last year, when she visited relatives in Michigan, and picked out the home in which she wished to stay.

"During her years at the Red Cross, Miss Mery made many friends here," says Red Cross Chapter Chairman Mrs. Walter Nielsen. "She was beloved by all the workers. We miss her terribly." Miss Mery had made her home here with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Haller.

There were no parties or ostentatious good-byes for Miss Mery when she left; a quiet, gentle person, she was embarrassed by such affairs. Instead, the members of the Red Cross chapter showed their appreciation and affection by something they knew sensible Miss Mery would approve of. They paid her plane fare to the east.

Community Christmas Sing On December 19

The annual Christmas Community Sing, sponsored by the Peninsula Male Chorus, will be held Sunday evening, December 19, at 4:00 o'clock in the Carmel Woman's Club.

In addition to the male chorus, several numbers will be offered by the Women's Chorus with both groups under the direction of John Farr. To conclude the evening, the audience will be invited to join the choruses in the singing of the traditional Christmas songs and carols.

Everybody's invited to come, and there'll be refreshments following the singing.

Girl Scout Carol Practice Monday

John Farr has found an hour in his busy schedule, from 7:00 to 8:00 o'clock Monday night to hold a carol practice for the Carmel Gir Scouts at their club house. Anyone who plans to join the girls in the caroling on December 22, is invited to attend Monday night's practice, if they wish.

The Carmel Girl Scouts' caroling plans for December 22 are part of an all-over-the-Peninsula project in which Girl Scouts of each city will form the nucleus of a group which they hope will be made up of singers of all ages. Carmel's contingent will meet on December 22 at the Girl Scout House at 7:30 o'clock.
